

This month's cover models Kellan Lutz and Lydia Hearst are featured in a romantic piece titled A Love Story, as captured by Alexis Dahan. When I think of love stories, my favorite has to be The Great Gatsby. While the iconic novel is often mentioned as a dissertation on the American Dream, it is important to remember that the motivation behind Jay Gatsby's pursuit of success is his love for Daisy Buchanan. This month's Royal Court is dedicated to the Gatsbys and Daisys of the social world, those people who are the most gossiped about, who possess a certain je ne sais quoi and who, hopefully, are enjoying their own pursuit of whatever the American Dream means to them.

In this month's fashion story, About Last Night, Jennifer Robbins and stylist Naila Chbib have created the ultimate party, replete with decadent masks and shimmering silver dresses. Also in the issue, sprite enchanteresse Erin Fetherstone is interviewed by Kristian Laliberte. And don't forget to peruse the accessory and jewelry pages for inspiration for your next night out.

As always, we at Social Life aim to intrigue and enlighten, to pique and pop.

ROYAL COURT

In a prior era, F. Scott Fitzgerald drew upon the inspiration of Manhattan and North Shore culture to create that masterpiece of literature entitled The Great Gatsby. Fitzgerald actually preferred other titles, including Among Ash-Heaps and Millionaires and Trimalchio. Only after the book had gone to press, did he decide that the title should be Under the Red White and Blue. But by that point it was too late. So in honor of the Fourth of July and Fitzgerald's favored title, I've decided to single out the Gatsbys and Daisys of the current social set.
